

Clinical Provider Survey

What is the overall morale of your providers? Are there opportunities for improvement?

With a clinical provider survey, our experts can take the pulse of your organization. We can provide insight into your operations to find where there are strengths and where there are opportunities for improvement through confidential interviews with clinical personnel, key leadership, and community and employed providers.

We will prepare an in-depth report for senior leadership and for the board of directors. These reports not only identify potential strengths and weaknesses, but also take into consideration recruitment opportunities and market information.

While an overall assessment with general questions to the physician community is very helpful, we can also focus on specific areas of

- New clinical initiatives or strategies
- Potential or implemented EHR or other systems
- Physician clinical needs
- Physician burnout
- Potential expansion or retraction of services
