

Revenue Cycle Assessment

Is your revenue cycle running efficiently? Is your team bogged down with manual workarounds?

Let Draffin Tucker assist your organization by thoroughly evaluating your registration-to-payment revenue cycle process. Through detailed interviews and observations, our team of experts will analyze your current process and make recommendations for improvement. Based on opportunities identified, we will work with you to implement the changes and process improvements as needed.

Our goal is to identify revenue cycle opportunities and provide you the necessary tools and resources to improve your internal processes going forward.

A typical assessment includes the following steps:

- Gather preliminary information from staff on current metrics, overall workflows, etc.
- Identify processes, areas of focus, and key personnel to interview.
- Conduct on-site interviews and observe the processes, tools, and other items used in your organization's revenue cycle.
- Document findings and prepare a summary report of opportunities for improvement and other key observations.
- Present findings to senior leadership and/or the board of directors as determined by you.
- Provide additional assistance in implementing process improvements as needed.
